New-Way Wonder for Corns, "Gets-It"

The Big Surprise for Corn Owners. It's Sure, Simple, Safe, Quick.

Listen to the wee story of "Gets-It," the world's greatest corn remedy. It's a short story, only about two feet,—"Mary had a little 'Gets-It,' and corns upon her toe; and every time she put on 'Gets-It' the corn was sure to go." Mary, like thousands of others, used to be a heroine, suffering martyrdom, using painful bandages, irritating salves, sticky tape, toe-harnesses, blood-bringing razors and scissors! She says now there's no sense in it. Use "Gets-It," applied in 2 seconds. Easy, simple, new way—just painless corns! Millions are doing it. Never fails. You can wear smaller shoes now. You don't have to limp around any more, or walk on the side of your shoes to try to get away from your corn! You know for sure before you use "Gets-It" that the corn or callus is going away. For corns, calluses, warts and bunions. "Gets-It" is sold by all druggists, use a bottle, or sent direct by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago. Sold in Ashland and recommended as the world's best corn remedy by McNair Bros. and J. J. McNair.

DO YOU FEEL HEADACHY? LOOK TO YOUR STOMACH

It is an unusual thing for a druggist to sell medicine under a guarantee to refund the money if it does not cure. Yet this is the way McNair Bros., the popular druggists, are selling Mi-o-na, the standard dyspepsia remedy.

Never before have they had so large a number of customers tell them that a medicine has been successful as with Mi-o-na. People who a few months ago looked like walking skeletons have put on flesh and today are ruddy and vigorous with perfect digestion and good health.

There is no longer and need for any one suffering or making their friends suffer on account of dyspepsia. Mi-o-na can always be relied upon. The percentage of cures is so great that there is little risk to McNair Bros. in guaranteeing to return the money if the medicine does not relieve. And they stand ready to do so without any question.

Headaches, all forms of indigestion, specks before the eyes, dizzy feelings, and all forms of liver trouble are helped by Mi-o-na. A few days' treatment should show considerable gain in health while a complete cure often follows rapidly.

Steamship Side Of Seamen's Act

New York, Nov. 6, 1915. Hon. Wm. C. Redfield, Secretary of Commerce, Washington, D. C.

My Dear Sir: I have read your letter to me of November 5.

The reasons why the Pacific Mail could not continue to operate its trans-Pacific ships if the seaman's bill became a law, have been given to committees of congress, in detail, with supporting figures which have never been answered.

In a letter to President Wilson July 6, 1914, I summarized the objections to the proposed legislation and gave notice that it would result in the withdrawal of the trans-Pacific ships. The language clause, while one of the most objectionable features of the bill, was only one of several unreasonable and onerous provisions. After a careful review of the subject when the bill was passed, we were unable to find any way to overcome the difficulties with which we were confronted, and with the approval of the shareholders withdrew from the business and sold the ships.

You refer to a reported dinner-table discussion in December, 1913, between the surveyor of customs at San Francisco and Mr. Schwerin (which, however, differs so much from the latter's opinion after expressed to me as to raise grave doubts as to the accuracy of the reporter's memory), and to excerpts from what Mr. Schwerin said before a committee of congress in 1913 about the Panama canal act, and argue that he ascribed the withdrawal of our Oriental service to the Panama canal bill, the provisions of which were not applicable to that line of ships, it clearly appears even from the excerpts contained in your letter, that Mr. Schwerin meant that the Panama canal bill would put the Pacific Mail out of business "so far as the Panama route is concerned, by law."

You reiterate that the Pacific Mail withdrew from trans-Pacific business because it was unprofitable in years past, but you can not deny, what every one knows, that conditions had changed at least a year before the withdrawal and had become profitable and the prospects for the future most unfavorable.

If the Pacific Mail persisted in the service during poor years it would certainly not have abandoned it when a good year had arrived, and others were in sight, except for sole compelling reasons. Shall we look for that reason in the Panama canal act, which did not interfere with the business in the least, or in the seaman's bill, which imposed upon it most burdensome restrictions? According to the press the same restrictions have been assigned by Mr. Robert Dollar and Mr. J. J. Hill as the cause of withdrawal of their ships from the Pacific. Are these gentlemen knaves or fools, either to conceal or not to know, as you do, that the Panama canal act and not the seaman's act was the real cause of withdrawal?

Finally, you again complain because the Pacific Mail did not wait to see how you would construe away the noxious provisions of the law. The law speaks for itself. The men who advocated it and the men who made it worded it so as to carry out their intention to effect a change in existing conditions. The Seaman's Union worked strenuously for its passage with that end in view.

Let us see what they sought:

In the hearings held before the committee on merchant marine and fisheries of December 12, 1911, Mr. McArthur, editor of the Coast Seaman's Journal, says: "This bill is designed to get rid of these aliens in tongue, color, instinct and everything else, and to replace them with Americans." Page 31. "But the purpose of this bill is to prevent the shipment of Chinese crews on American vessels." Page 34.

Mr. Andrew Furness, president of the International Seaman's Union, says: "A vessel that has that kind of a crew (Chinese) is so utterly unseaworthy that she is not only in danger of herself but to every class of vessel that she meets." Page 95.

Thus the legislators (Congressional Records, proceedings October 2 and 28, 1913):

Senator Fletcher: "I think that the provisions in section 12 of the proposed substitute requiring that 75 per cent of the crew in each department understand the orders of the officers, is not so much intended to promote safety at sea as it is to affect wages and prevent employment of Asiatic seamen on the Pacific."

Senator Burton: "The committee thought the adoption of the provision as it stands in the substitute would drive our flag out of the trans-Pacific trade. What would be the result of adoption of this provision? The six boats engaged in business on the Pacific would no doubt be forced to withdraw." Page 58.

Referring to the language test section: "The law requires the collection of customs upon the sworn complaint of any reputable citizen that the section is not complied with (which may be made at any time up to six hours before departure of the vessel) to cause the muster of the crew to determine the fact. You are powerless to change the law or to control the action of members of the Seaman's Union, who are all 'reputable citizens.'"

It is easy, however, when the lines of the Pacific ocean have ceased to be, to give instructions which apparently take the teeth out of the law.

Perchance you have not read opinions of Mr. William F. McCombs, chairman of the democratic national committee, which appeared in the New York Sun of November 4, thus: "I believe that the Lafolette law should be repealed." I have investigated carefully and believe the bill puts unwarranted burdens upon the shipping interests."

It is pleasant indeed, Mr. Secretary, to note your satisfaction over the fact that the stockholders have received a good price for their ships. It is due to the accident of the war, however, and not to the seaman's bill that the abandonment of commerce on the Pacific ocean to foreign owned lines of steamships was not accompanied by disastrous financial loss to American corporations and their stockholders.

Yours very truly,
J. KRUTTSCHNITT,
Chairman.

The Big Game of the Year at Eugene Saturday, Nov. 20 U. of O. vs. O. A. C.

The football game this year between U. of O. and O. A. C. will be bitterly contested. Oregon won from the strong U. of S. Cal. team 34 to 0, while the Oregon Aggies defeated the Michigan Aggies 21 to 0. These two teams rank with the best in the United States. The winning of this game at Eugene on Nov. 20th by either team means more than a championship. It will be worth your while to see it. Trick plays, forward passes, will keep the spectators tense from the start of the game to the final blow of the whistle.
